

The project « Empowering Communities in Europe » was funded with the support of the European Union under the Programme "Europe for Citizens"

Measure 2.3 "Civil Society Projects"

Empowering Communities in Europe project aimed to deconstruct the process of migrants' stigmatisation and to foster intercultural dialogue and mutual understanding. The project involved local leaders and selected communities to overcome stereotypes and develop counter narratives for more accurate perceptions of migrants and refugees arriving to Central Europe. The workshop was crafted in order to utilise methodologies and content from the British Council's Active Citizens Programme, as a platform to support the work of the organisations participating. The workshop followed relatively closely a tried and tested flow, to introduce and embed the Active Citizens theory of change which follows a Learning Journey metaphorised as The River. The learning journey enabled participants to explore a critical path from individual identity and culture, utilising skills for intercultural dialogue, towards community-based collaborations, culminating in social action projects planning. Home Team leaders reported that despite some initial setbacks in the facilitation practice Home Team sessions, the participants were competent and confident to deliver community workshops using the content and methodologies tailored for ECE project. Overall, the Be the Change workshop was a successful intervention, introducing Active Citizens content and methodology to an established international group of professionals working on refugee engagement and equipped them with motivation, skills, knowledge and networks to deliver community workshops and identify social actions.

Some political parties have been also successfully exploiting anti-immigration fears and sentiments. What do people in Central and Southern Europe feel about migration? Are some groups of migrants more acceptable than others?? How can we explain differences in attitude towards migrants? Why the policy of "fear" that is widely exploited by political forces is so successful in the region?
